WASHINGTON TIMES BUREAU. ANACOSTIA, D. C., MAY 23. Five hundred children assembled in the parish hall of the Emmanuel Protestant Episcopal Church, on V and Passamaquoddy Indians, of Maine, by Dr. Frank G. Speck, of the Unipart in the rally exercises conducted there under the auspices of the World's Sunday School Convention. They were the representatives of the Garden Memoral Processing of the World's Sunday School Convention. The children attending St. Teresa's Parochial School, on V street, will give their first entertainment this week, beginning tonight, with a dramatic performance in the hall of St. Teresa's Church, Thirteenth and V streets.

Mrs. Harvey S. Irwin, of Washington, recording secretary of the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbytery of Washington, has transmitted an invitation to the women of the Garden Memorial Presbyterian Church to take part in the regular meeting of the society next Wednesday evening in the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church. A local delegation will attend.

The Men's Brotherhood of the Garden Memorial Church will hold its regular meeting Friday evening next in the edifice. The last meeting was dispensed with by reason of the religious convention in the city.

A petition is being circulated asking that the District authorities take steps to have a street opened between the Morris road and Talburt street as an extension of Mt. View place. The proposed improvement would necessitate the condemnation of land now owned by private parties.

Milton M. Thorn, the newly-elected first viee president of the District Ep-worth League, addressed the members of the Epworth League of the Anacostin. Methodist Episcopal Church at their last meeting.

McCUMBER IMPROVING.

Senator McCumber, who has been the Garfield Memorial Hospital for several weeks, is improving slowly, but is not expected to return to the Senate until after the 1st of July. It was said at the Senator's office today that he might be out by the June, but certainly not before.

spective houses of worship to the scene of the services.

The presiding officer at the rally was George Shipway, J. P., of England. The speakers were Mrs. J. A. Walker, of Colorado, and William H. Stanes, of India. Immediately following the rally a special service took place in the Anacostia Methodist Episcopal Church, at Fourteenth and U streets, when the Rev. Dr. Charles R. Watson, of Philadelphia, was the leader, with Page L. Zimmerman, of Washington, as the musical director. Another speaker in Anacostia Church was the Rev. Isaac Headland, of Peking, China.

Speakers at Anacostia churches last night were the Rev. E. K. McCord, of Japan, in the Garden Memorial Presbyterian Church, on Minnesota avenue, where W. W. Higgins, of Dallas, Tex. also spoke. In the Anacostia Baptist Church Miss Bertha G. Johnson, of India, and J. Shreve Burham, of Chicago, were the speakers.

The Penobscot tribe is practicall an empire within an empire, he says, for in many respects it is complete in itself politically. Despite the provisions of the United States Constitution that Congress shall deal with Indian tribes, the Penobscots recognize only the State of Mishe, and their relations with it are most cordial.

"There are two political parties, the old, or conservative, and the new, or radical," said Dr. Speck. "They split, many years ago, on the subject of Catholicism, but the basis of their differences today is wholly economic.

"The new party is against admitting any more Indians, such as those from Canada, to tribal rights, for the State of Maine treats its wards lavishly, and any increase in numbers would reduce the pro rata share of their annuities. The old party, on the other hand, favors opening the tribal books, on the theory that an infusion of new blood will keep alive a race that is now fast disappear-ing.

Easily Influenced With Liquor. "Cash bribes in the elections are uneard of, but few Indian voters are not their public men and weeding out the weak and hypocritical.

"Elections are for a period of two years. When the old party is in power the 'news' are absolutely frozen out, having not so much as a minority magistrate to console them. The party in power elects a governor, or chief, at $500 per pear, the lieutenants, or division captains, and the tribal policemen.

"The position of representative in the Maine Legislature, which carries with it the munificent salary of $200 per year, has been held, through one administration after another, by Charles D. Mitchell, a highly educated and diplomatic full-blooded Penobscot, Mitchell's capacity to sit tight, no matter what faction may control at home, would do credit to Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson, of whom, by the way, he is a great admirer.

"The representative in the Legislature can speak only upon matters affecting Indian policy. The elections are characterized by frenzied speechmaking and tent-to-tent canvassing.

"On election day, the big feature, while the votes are being counted, is the tribal dance. The first dance lasts an hour and a half, and is executed by a famed singer and dancer from a village forty miles up the river, to the monotonous droning of the crowd. After a short interval, the Mu Mae, another weird dance, is given for an hour without cessation. American waltzes and two-steps follow, for these are rapidly becoming the fad among Indian young ladies.

"The election itself is a formality, for the parties are bound to exchange places every two years, whether in the majority or not. The radicals are in power now, until January 1, 1911.

"There is no polygamy among the Indians, and their social life is clean and wholesome, despite the deteriorating influence of the poor class of whites with which they come in contact. Thievery and pecuniary unreliability are exceedingly rare among them, but drunkenness is their besetting sin.

"Wampum, the old shell money current in New Amsterdam days, is still plentiful in Maine, though it is used more for decorative and ceremonial purposes. It is still, however, a recognized standard of value.

"Except in winter time, the Indians are industry personified. In the spring they make bark or canvas cances and hunt muskrats. In the summer they take their annual salt water trip, selling baskets and trinkets all along the New England coast for the tourist trade. In the fall they hunt deer and moose, trap smaller game, make snowshoes, ax handles, etc., saw wood or work in the mills. Some also work through the winter, but most good Indians like to spend that time enjoying themselves.

TRIAL IS EXPECTED TO BREAK CAMORRA

Italian Officials Hope to Convict Thirty Members of Dreaded Band. ROME, May 23.—Thirty members he dreaded Camorra will be put on trial here next August for a four-year-old The trial is expected to last six menths, and be one of the most sensational ever held in Italy. The victims of the murder were a couple named Concolo, who are belie-ed to have been at one time spies of the Camorra.

But the main object of the trial is to deal a blow at the organization of the Camorra—one of the most powerful forces of evil in Italy, which for years has controlled the political and social life of Naples.

Four hundred years is the aggregate term of sentences to which the accused are liable if found guilty.

FARMERS TO ORGANIZE. SPOKANE, May 23 .- The Farmers Warehouse Association of the Inland Warehouse Association of the Inland Empire, controlling approximately 40 per cent of the 60,000,000 or more bushels of wheat harvested annually in eastern Washington and Oregon, north and central Idaho and western Montana, will be organized in Spokane on June 10. The purpose is to pool the grain and sell it directly to millers and exporters, charging net more than 1 cent a bushel for handling and marketing. No attempt will be made to advance prices, but rather to eliminate the middleman.
